

Medicare for All and Beyond: Expanding Coverage, Containing Costs

About this Event

Health care reform has taken center stage during presidential primary season, as candidates offer diverse proposals to expand insurance coverage and contain costs. In this conference, researchers, policymakers, providers, and other stakeholders will dive into fundamental issues that cross all proposals. Panelists will discuss affordability standards, the value of choice, payment and pricing, and political feasibility.

Join us for a keynote address by Pulitzer Prize-winning author Paul Starr, PhD and a live recording of Tradeoffs, a new health policy podcast hosted by Dan Gorenstein. See the full agenda.
